Cargill, an international producer and marketer of food, agricultural, financial and industrial products and services, has been active in South Africa since 1995 and now has 85 employees and is based out of Johannesburg. Cargill's South African operations include; grain and oilseed, cotton and coal trading, speciality food ingredients, financial and risk management services.

Cargill has supported Rally to Read for a number of years but 2010 will be the first year in which the company will be a lead sponsor of the Mpumalanga 1 Rally. Cargill, as part of the Mpumalanga 1 rally, will visit 11 different rural schools; distributing much needed educational books and equipment and teacher training materials in an effort to help over 4000 children and 148 teachers across the Mpumalanga region.

Cargill is committed to supporting and enriching the local communities where it is based, and one of the company's key focus areas is to promote access to education. Rally to Read is a great initiative that provides key educational resources to some of the most neglected rural schools. Cargill is very excited by the prospect of visiting the schools and helping to support the education of the local children.

We are delighted to be supporting Rally to Read 2010!
